INTERNATIONAL SOCIAL SECURITY ASSOCIATION

International Social Security Association

Join the leaders in social security administration

Welcome to the ISSA community of excellence in social security administration

The exceptional group of leaders and professionals that make up the membership of the International Social Security Association (ISSA) are united in their strong belief in the importance of social security for our societies, economies and populations.

ISSA members share the view that excellence in administration is essential to develop and sustain dynamic social security systems based on good governance, high performance and service quality. Only by sharing best practices, and jointly developing innovative solutions, can we individually and collectively progress and succeed in our mandates.

Social security systems are increasingly facing the same challenges due to globalization, demographic ageing, changing labour markets and the emerging digital economy, the ISSA's role has become more important than ever. As the only global network of social security organizations committed to excellence, the ISSA provides access to a strategic partner with a deep understanding of your business, of the challenges you are facing, and of how you can address these successfully. A partner you can count on!

For nine decades the ISSA has been committed to promoting adequate and sustainable social security for all and strengthening the critical role of administrations. Together we have shaped a clear vision of how the ISSA can best assist its members in reaching administrative excellence: at the strategic level, through professional standards, international collaboration, and knowledge sharing, and at the operational level, through relevant and high-quality knowledge products based on best practices and support services tailored to members' needs.

This brochure gives a brief insight into our unique organization and the exclusive strategic and practical benefits it offers its members.

We look forward to providing you with more details and to welcoming you personally to the ISSA's community of excellence.
